Siena New York Poll:

Obama Surges and Now Leads McCain 58%-36%

Palin Popularity Plummetts; McCain Now Viewed Unfavorably

Voters: Obama Won 1st Debate; ¾ Say They Will Watch VPs Tonight

NYers Say Obama Better to Address Economy & Fiscal Challenges

Loudonville, NY. As the Vice Presidential candidates prepare to debate, Sen. Barack Obama (D-IL) has opened a commanding 22-point lead over Sen. John McCain (R-AZ), up from five points three weeks ago, according to a new Siena (College) Research Institute poll of likely voters released today. Obama leads McCain 58-36 percent, increasing his lead among Democrats and now leading with independent voters by 15 points, after being tied among independents in the last Siena poll. Gov. Sarah Palin’s (D-AK) favorability rating has dropped dramatically in three weeks. She is now viewed favorably by 36 percent and unfavorably by 52 percent. McCain’s favorability is negative (43-49 percent) for the first time since June, while Obama has his highest favorable rating (64-29 percent) ever. By a margin of 51-21 percent, voters think Obama won the first debate, and 79 percent say they plan to watch Palin and Sen. Joe Biden (D-DE) debate tonight.

“New York appears to be flexing its ‘blue’ again,” said Steven Greenberg, spokesman for the Siena New York Poll. “Whether it’s the state of the nation’s economy, the ebbing favorability of both McCain and Palin, or the fact that the majority of voters think that Obama won the first debate, New Yorkers have given the Democrats a huge lead. Obama has the support of 81 percent of Democrats, while McCain gets 71 percent of Republicans in a state where Democrats have a huge enrollment edge.

“Obama has a better than two-to-one favorability rating – his best ever – and Biden’s favorability rating is nearly two-to-one favorable. McCain’s favorability rating has fallen into negative territory and Palin’s unfavorable rating has gone from 30 percent to 52 percent in just three weeks, as more voters have gotten to know her,” Greenberg said.

On a series of five questions about issues in the campaign – economy, Iraq, terrorism, health care, and Supreme Court appointments – voters believe Obama will do a better job on four. On six attributes voters often look at in choosing a candidate – compassion, patriotism, experience, intelligence, integrity, and leadership – New York voters favor Obama on four, up from two in the last poll.

I'm going to read a list of issues that the next president will have to deal with and I'd like you to tell me which of the candidates – John McCain or Barack Obama (rotated) – you think will be more effective in solving that issue.
Issue	McCain		Obama
	Oct.	Sept.	Oct.	Sept.
Revitalizing the American Economy	30%	38%	57%	49%
Successfully ending the war in Iraq	35%	39%	57%	49%
Keeping America safe from terrorism	48%	54%	40%	33%
Improving our health care system	22%	27%	66%	55%
Enhancing America's strength in the world	NA	47%	NA	41%
Building a 21 st century education system	NA	25%	NA	57%
Making best appointments to Supreme Court	34%	NA	54%	NA

“Obama has strengthened his lead over McCain on revitalizing the economy, ending the war in Iraq and improving health care. While McCain still has a lead on keeping America safe from terrorism, it’s down to eight points from 21 points three weeks ago. Obama also has the lead on Supreme Court appointments,” Greenberg said.

I'm going to read you a list of attributes that voters often look at when deciding which presidential candidate to vote for and I'd like you to tell me which of the two candidates – John McCain or Barack Obama (rotated) – you think more fully embodies that attribute.
Attribute	McCain		Obama
	Oct.	Sept.	Oct.	Sept.
Compassion	28%	32%	60%	52%
Patriotism	59%	59%	26%	21%
Experience	74%	73%	17%	18%
Intelligence	27%	30%	58%	50%
Integrity	36%	43%	51%	38%
Leadership	43%	49%	48%	39%

“On personal attributes, Obama widened his lead on compassion and intelligence. McCain maintained strong leads on patriotism and experience. But voters now say Obama is stronger on integrity and leadership, two traits which McCain won in the last Siena poll,” Greenberg said.

Nearly two-thirds of voters have been paying a great deal of attention to the recent financial news and the proposed bailout plan. More than three-quarters say the current financial situation poses an ‘extremely serious’ problem for the American economy, and 42 percent say it creates an ‘extremely serious’ problem for their household economic health, with another 43 percent saying it is a ‘somewhat serious’ problem. By a margin of 43-36 percent, a plurality of voters support the proposed $700 billion bailout.

“Democrats and Republicans found something they agree on: both support the bailout plan by small margins, while independent voters oppose it,” Greenberg said.

“Republicans and Democrats go their separate ways, however, on which candidate will do a better job addressing the nation’s economic and fiscal challenges,” Greenberg said. “Democrats say Obama by an 80-13 percent margin, and Republicans say McCain by a smaller 61-23 percent margin. Overall, by a nearly two-to-one margin (58-30 percent) voters think Obama will do a better job addressing the economy.”
